But the “history of comedy” is just one part of this extraordinary tour package. In the 1800s, Western New York was oftentimes visited by folks like Henry Ford and Harvey Firestone, with steamboats navigating the waters of Lake Chautauqua so that folks could enjoy a leisurely cruise. Travel on the lake reached its peak in the late 1800s and the vintage “City of Jamestown” continued to sail until 1963.

A new steamboat was constructed to celebrate the country’s Bicentennial with steam engines again called upon to turn the paddlewheel. Over the years, our tours have included three other steamboats including the “Riverboat Twilight” on the Mississippi, the “Belle of Louisville” and the “Natchez” down in New Orleans.

Like these other steamboats, and those of yesteryear, we will be dining onboard while catching the August lake breezes, just as Henry and Harvey did over a century ago.
