- What began as a small home, built in the 1940s, atop a chimney of rock, opened to the public two decades later. Over the years it continued to expand, amassing a large and amazing collection. What began as a lofty retreat with an awe-inspiring view has become a spectacular attraction known as The House on the Rock.
- In keeping with the theme of this tour, we will be dining at some new and different places, including Paul Bunyon’s Cook Shanty, one of the nine meals included in tour.
